

Dear Sir or Madam,

My comments are mostly on the query;
"What do you think of what's on the box".

We are 10 ladies - the things we all agree are.

- 1) We do miss "news at 9" <sup>badly</sup> and the later one usually clashes with ITV, so what's the point.
- 2) Although <sup>programmes with</sup> bad language <sup>and</sup> sex <sup>violence</sup> have moved a bit later, many children are still watching at 9 pm. And worse, the advertisements now pictured between programmes do not seem to be vetted even at earlier times. (I admit ITV are worse - ~~by~~ but that's no excuse)
- 3). Programmes are still sometimes anti-Catholic, though there has been some improvement lately.

4) I <sup>we</sup> presume there is a reason for putting similar programmes at the same time on BBC & ITV, but I <sup>we</sup> suspect the advantages are for the corporation, not for viewers.

5. Now to be positive: I <sup>we</sup> think your documentaries are superb, also detective programmes and arts, sports, and the various news programmes. But do we need to actually see all the violence, <sup>(on the news)</sup> or worse to see victims & relations asked "How do you feel about . . . ."

Insensitivity must surely add to their misery.

I personally am a Ceefax addict (!), do they want a perf-reader - they do need one - just give me a freephone number!

Congratulations on your good work.

Yours sincerely

E. Aldworth (Miss)
