

Comments below were received via the Charter Review hotline. The respondent is happy to have these comments published via the DCMS website.

Date: Wednesday 24 March 2004

Name of Respondent: Mrs T Gray

Two points related to the consultation on Charter Review as follows:

1. 'The dancers in red between BBC programmes are annoying. If they were adverts, this would generate money to reduce the licence fee.'
2. 'The programmes should not compete with other channels but be informative and educational.'