To Whom It May Concern

In view of the continued increase in violent crimes in our cities and on our streets, is it not high time to place more emphasis on Christian values and those qualities which enrich life? So much violence, discord, revolting behaviour and bad language is presented endlessly on our TV screens; is it any wonder that our children are lead to believe that this is the acceptable way of life?

I urge those who make these - often unhealthy programmes to take responsibility for the harm they are doing to many of our young folk in this day and age.
