

BBC Charter Review

I only have a few points that I wish to include in the Charter review consultation. They are as follows,

- There should be more digital channels. e.g. BBC3 and BBC4 and also more channels for children.
- There should be more programmes aimed at the gay community. Since BBC3 replaced BBC Choice it seems they have all been abandoned. Whatever happened to the promised second series of Queer as Folk?
- I would like to see more interactive shows, programmes such as Test the Nation, the BBC should air more shows like this.
- BBC Parliament should go to full screen. It is very difficult to see what is actually happening with the present size of the screen.

Thank you

Mr Revell (Bolton)
