

L. SHARMAN

17/03/04.

Sir,

Reference the letter in BATH Chronicle 13/03/04, BBC's Royal Charter.

I have recently seen some letters from readers with regard to Background noise and so called music that is like a Virus creeping into most programmes regardless of type.

This makes great difficulty to older listeners, especially those using hearing aids.
As example, so often reporters interview M.P.'s, out doors at Westminster, with all the traffic noise in the background, drowning out all that is said, making the interview useless, and why oh why do so many documentary programmes have the so called background music imposed on them "

Please can something be done to eradicate this situation.

So sorry about the writing, but age is taking its toll (over 80)

Sincerely

L. Shorman
