

HAVE YOUR SAY B.B.C MARCH 2004

I value the news most on the B.B.C.
I think most of the time you give us the news as it is also Educational coverage,
The subject cover less ^{well} is Politics.

I think the services provided on Television and Radio are quite good.

BBC should continue running some commercial services, and advertising programmes to be shown on the Television, but not advertising things like e.g Cornflakes.

I think the licence fee is the best way to pay for the BBC, but the fee is too high, and should not be increased so often.

The BBC used to provide the best services for the Public e.g programmes with good morals, good decent language ect. Now it shows programmes with swear words, dirty deeds, saying its after nine o'clock.
and that is not good enough.

Children have television in their rooms and look at these programmes, when parents think they are asleep.
The BBC must set a good example as it used to do.
People all over the world respected the BBC.
where ever we were we used to run home to hear the news and programmes from the BBC.

(2)

The BBC must tell the truth in the News make sure the story is true Do not dilute it because, of fear of the Government of the day.

I do not think Government should interfere with the running of the BBC.

The BBC should not take sides where the Government is concerned, and tell the News as it is, in a responsible way.

The BBC must be commended for all the good clean lovely family programmes it has given us during the past years e.g. "Keeping up appearances", "Only Fools and Horses"
"Last of the Summer wine" ect. It must keep up the same high standards in the future.

Concerning the soaps. "EastEnders" have some bad story lines which are not good for young-people, they set a bad example.

I think the BBC should consult the Public before airing some programmes - such as "Eldorado", I was very disappointed when it was taken off.
I also enjoyed "First of the Summer wine".

you can publish my response, and you can reply to me personally.

Ms Claire Emeline Simon

P.S

The BBC is my favourite station. I wrote this poem some time ago. I sent it in to the BBC, but got no response.

I am enclosing a copy.

G. E. Simon

Terry Wogan
And THE B.B.C

January 1992

Mr Terry Wogan
He Hosts a very nice Programme
Monday, Wednesday, Friday
I know he gets a good Pay Celebrities, Politicians and Laymen
She also had Dirty Den
And Whoopee with her Modern gear
The Colour Purple in her hair
All of them he tries to Scare
That man called Terry Wogan
He thinks he is more clever than Paul Hogan
But the Australian is a hauty man -
With his Crocodile Dundee Suit
But Terry's he dresses quite cute Shoes to match his tie you couldn't win him even if you try She likes the taste of food and Wine
She sits right there and dine
The time is seven o'clock to be precise Whatever you fancy take a slice Then Press the button on B.B.C. one you'll never regret what you have just done

Blanche Emmeline Dimson