Dear BBC Charter Review,

Two thoughts, if you please?

I am keen to see the TV licence fee reduced very significantly. I want to see a basic colour TV licence brought down to £60.00 p.a. Plus charge (optional) £25.00 extra for users of cable - or special channels?

Second, please may we see a more respectful treatment of Christianity.

on air? Christian faith has helped people to find meaning - and solace - in life for 2000 years! This is no mean achievement, and is worthy of serious (i.e. not frivolous) address. Perhaps BBC 2 would give us sympathetic portrayals of some great spiritual teachers of the past, as St Paul, Thomas Aquinas, Bonaventure, or Teresa of Avila? This work done well could help offset the prevailing cynicism and despair of our times. I feel? Good wishes!

Yours faithfully,
James H. V. Wheen
