

Dear Madam

Ref: Your request for comments about the BBC

On the radio today at about 1330 hours I heard an advert for Woolworths, followed by verbal tripe containing words I wouldn't want my 6 year old grandson to learn. They couldn't even speak properly. And yes.....it was on Radio 2. Enough is enough. Commercial radio is similar and I don't support them so why should I support such rubbish by paying a licence fee.

- 1) For the populous I suggest you consider freezing the licence fee and give a date when it will be abolished.
- 2) Give the BBC it's head completely by removing any restrictions.
- 3) Lay plans and implement them to privatise it.

Yours sincerely,

G.R. Wooster.
