

Dear Sirs,

Charles Rowley

Sport

We deplore the gradual disappearance of most sports to other channels.

Those sports you retain contain at least 50% of the time in so called 'experts' discussing the games. We do not want to know particularly smooch, what the players had for breakfast, girl friends, or any other particularities.

Documentaries

We enjoy these very much, but can not understand the producers, wishing to "drown out" the commentator with loud music. (This affects older listeners)

Comedy Have all the writers disappeared?

The series of old comedies: - 'Porterhoff', 'Open all hours', 'Only fools and horses' developed the characters of the players, and were intelligent. Can nobody write any more?

It shows you think they were popular, because they are repeated to death.

Yours faithfully
