

21st MARCH 2005.

Dear Sir, OR MADAM,?

With reference to the enclosed clipping, I have a couple of things that I would like to Rapper.

PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE,

gag some of these sports commentators. Do we need somebody giving a radio commentary when we are watching the game. When they are not stating the obvious, they babble between themselves, it ruins the game. I know you can turn off the sound, but that spoils the atmosphere, especially snooker. I read in the paper, that the BBC is talking about redundancies, now, get rid of some of the useless talkers and problem solvers.

My second grouch, is the length of time
 the BBC keeps some programmes running.
 Is it necessary to keep them running year after year. The horizon is steadily
 there must be clever people in your club
 that can organise interesting programmes
 without flogging others to death.

Anything that has been on the box for over two years, wants changing, and also repeats of them.

Sorry about the writing, my hands are not as steady as they once were.

Yours hopefully.

L. C. Cook