

27.03.05

BBC Charter Review

Dear Sirs

I am one of the millions of retired citizens. Television is my main source of entertainment day and evening. I am therefore incensed that we do not have our own channel(s) or at least thought about by existing channels, and I don't mean documentaries or "war remembered".

We want topics on health, household tips, decorating, gardening, shopping, fashion, safety, travel, holidays and classic films, all related to the elderly.

I watch BBC, ITV, NTL and SKY movies and I am 'lived' during the day especially, when ALL channels show programmes for tiny tots, children and youths;

People of my age <sup>are</sup> completely ignored
which does not make business sense as we are the most avid
day time viewers.

Please remember us when planning future TV.

Yours faithfully

Joan English

MRS JOAN ENGLISH
(AGE 74)

P.S. a channel devoted to the CLASSICS would also be well accepted by a large proportion of the population - opera, ballet and concerts.
Culture is sadly lacking in our society today.