T. FAWCETT,

BBC Charter Review Green Paper

In response to the BBC Charter Review, I would like to make in known that I disagree with the compulsory license fee because of blasphemous programmes it has recently funded such as Jerry Springer the Opera. It should therefore be scraped.

Also for people who only watch programmes from abroad such as EWTN they should not need to pay the license fee if against all reason it is retained.

Yours faithfully

J. M. H. - Fawcett.
