Dear BBC. Having been an avid BBC listener, and now viewer, since car whisker days, I feel I must fire a salvo against the ruination of my Sunday listening of Radio 2.

The only day in which the elderly could enjoy a variety of music has been taken away and given to younger listeners. As if they're not catered for. Thank goodness for Travel programmes Panorama and such comedies as Little Portman and Help. Lots of plaudits but one rasberry.

Sorry can't do Internet, call me old fashioned.

Yours sincerely

ADRIAN FELTHAM
