Dear Gorm

Regarding the charter for BBC TV. I do not know why we need BBC 3-4 etc as there is not much to watch on BBC 1-2 only repeats. The system of a license fee is old hat much like hats of things in this country (someone will pay) We should move on. If the BBC need to raise money, they should go out and earn it, there are plenty of highly payed workers to to do this, other TV channels have to raise their funds.

And not rely on licence payers, most of whom are low payed, unemployed or pensioners. When it comes to a new financial year they have a blank cheque like a lot of other companies.
We should not be forced to pay for something we do not use, we do not watch BBC as there is not much worth watching, and I do not see how they can warrant a licence fee for this rubbish.
If you want to watch any BBC channels you should subscribe, 3 Billion pounds in fees and still rubbish, when you have a company who can go to save one pound money even though there is waste, to bail them out is disgusting, whether or not someone on a high salary makes a mess of things they are bailed out, no one bails me out,

we have to pay one dues & demands whether we have the money or not.
This is demanding money by law.
