

BBC Charter Review

Dept. for Culture Media & Sport.
2-4 Cockspur St.
LONDON SW1Y 5DH

1/2/8

25 MAY 2005

YOUR BBC, YOUR SAY

1. The licence fee for the BBC must be retained, the prospect of an all commercial TV & Radio is unthinkable.
2. Current programs are not all bad; there has been some improvement recently. The BBC must, however, grow up and use the money they receive more responsibly. Some of the material currently put out is immature rubbish - Game shows, Fly on wall, so-called celebrities and near-pornographic comedy. There is also a fixation on cooking & hospital programs. Let us have some good new drama and comedy programs; like the repeats padding current schedules.
3. If TV is, as forecast going fully digital in the future, is it necessary to have so many different, and expensive, channels - BBC 1 to 5?
4. Let the commercial channels cater for the less sophisticated market and make the BBC a centre of excellence, educational, informative and, above all, entertaining.

Alan J. Jenkin