Dear Sir or Madam,

I don't know what I pay my TV licence for. Most of the programmes are rubbish and the so called soaps have wooden actors, Jessie Wallace in Eastenders for example. These do watch jump all over the TV schedules. Songs of Praise is never on at the same time two weeks running.

Gardening programmes which I like are the first ones to be rescheduled for sport.

And you never show a stonking good rock concert just MOR stuff.

On the recent Fred Dibnah slot I couldn't hear a word for the brass band in the background music. Many programmes had their time slots altered during the Iraq war for TV reports and I missed a lot of stuff I wanted to see.

I watch very little TV anyhow now and I think £126 for a licence is a lot of money paid for very little usage. My viewing ~~has~~ barely exceeds 1-2 hrs per week. NOT a very good return.

Yours
S. Stone
