

Your BBC Your Say

2.2.05

Dear Sirs.

I am standard BBC fodder - BBC2, BBC4, Radio 4 & 5 live fulfill me. but. BBC1 and its news - yuk!!

I pay for BBC News - I watch Channel 4 news - even Sky News Anyway! to BBC1 news - The jungle drum intro - its aura of violence applied equally to disasters or cat up a tree stories sets the pattern for the farce to follow. - a hurried amateurish farce involving the pathetic acting out of personal involvement by presenters ranging from the frozen to the headbutt (so we have you on screen, we have tried you and found you guilty) all spread thickly with Moddy Said to Big ears overtones

Please get some grown ups to run it

BBC3 - what an opportunity for arts, drama, debates, dance, crafts, music, etc etc etc - a new digital Six Lane motorway of which the BBC restricts its use to tractors and caravans - 'One pint of lager' sets the standard and anything appearing informative is put out via the usual bounced camera angles and hyped moire designed to appeal to the attention span disadvantaged.

The real class divide in Britain perpetrated by BBC snobs is the media gulf between dirty hand occupations (usually meaningful, fullfilling, and needed) and clean hand occupations (usually not needed) consequently plumbers electricians, joiners, builders, maors, etc are always depicted as illiterate jobs who work in a state of frantic hysteria in drama or makeover grot & generally to be laughed at. The BBC has a duty to restore dignity to the things that really matter - after all we don't pay the BBC to be insulted by it. - well in fact we do!

The one thing worth paying for - lack of advertising, is now being replaced by extremely hyped self promotion - at increased volume - is this legal?

There are also some aspects of BBC output I admire
Thank you for the opportunity to sound off. Yr Sincerely

P.S. 'NEWSFLASH' the BBC has increased its daily 24 hour output of hypocritical religious slurs to cover the death of an elderly man in an upmarket hospice
