

9th March 2005

BBC Charter Review
Department for Culture, Media & Sport
2-4 Cockspar Street
London
SW1Y 5DH

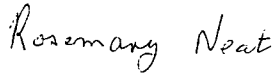

Dear Sir or Madam

Regarding the renewal of the BBC Charter, I would like see less game shows, less gardening/make-over shows, less violent/sexual films, unsuitable for family viewing and less cooking shows, particularly where the chefs constantly swear.

I would like to have more drama, more documentaries, more programmes showing life in other countries (not just wild animals being eating or having sex) and more news - perhaps the 10 o'clock news could be extended to 1 hour for example. I do not think the BBC should be obsessed with ratings, it should concentrate on quality programmes, not necessarily aimed at morons.

The aim of the BBC should be to entertain and educate, to be a world leader in quality broadcasting, and to be a corporation we can all be proud of.

Yours faithfully

Rosemary Neat (Mrs)