

22 March 2005

BBC Charter Review
Department for Culture Media and Sport
2-4 Cockspur Street
London SW1Y 5DH

Dear Sirs,

Further to your advertisement "Your BBC, Your Say"; what most normal people want is no swearing, no sex, no violence.

Educated adults flinch at swear words used in public. The BBC used to portray a standard to which all could aspire and society used to be far less violent. A return to a calm polite thoughtful way of life is obviously possible if only the media would have the guts to lead the way. At present younger people are being shown the low, selfish, violent uneducated side of life as a normal pattern! You only need to walk down any High Street to see the effect of this degrading example.

Any chance of civilized, entertaining programmes being included in the next Charter? Come on, redeem yourselves!

Yours faithfully,

B. Neve

MRS. B. NEVE