Complaints about BBC programmes.

1. The awful thumping background noise during all news headlines. Impossible to hear the human voice above the din. Sometimes I only want to hear the headlines.
2. The 'Paxman show', i.e. University Challenge. Speaks far too fast. No opportunity for applause from the audience. Answers given (if student's answer incorrectly) fast and quieter. Some people like to know the correct answers. Rushing at the end - 'I need an answer'. It is no longer an enjoyable programme.
3. The disgusting scenes at the end of 'Ask the Family'. People gorging cream cakes at the end of the programme. So this the way to teach young children table manners?
4. The number of adverts between programmes from Bete Owen.
