

March 28th 05.

Dear madam/sir,

I write with a few comments on the modern choice of programmes, their contents and repeats.

I would urge you to return to a higher standard, to include more drama, and real life stories of people who cope exceedingly well in all sorts of difficult situations therefore inspiring the viewers to empathise and support people they may meet in their everyday lives.

Quizzes and fun game shows should have a basis of "its good to learn", I'm sure you could envisage subjects that could attract all ages.

Entertainment should be uplifting so that when we switch off we can truly say we enjoyed it!

I personally would like to see more light classical concerts and choral concerts.

I know you can't please everyone but the consensus of opinion seems to be that the old days were better!

Regards. J. Perry. ms..