Dear Sir/Madam,

Thank you for your advertisement requests, opinions on your programmes.

I am a Channel 4, Radio listener of the 9.45 AM Service, & at breakfast & lunch time. I have been impressed by the research needed to produce programs of interest, after expiring wrong doings, & I thank God for a free press.

Like ~~was~~ C, the T.V. programs have entertained us immensely, but the program planners seemed to have turned their backs on God, particularly on Sunday mornings. Our historical heritage is built on Christianity, & we are losing the respect of other faiths, by not acknowledging it.

Due to ill health, I like many others am not able to attend church on Sundays. & apart from 'Songs of Praise' there is little to uplift my heart.

May I suggest that most program planners should have grey hairs on their heads, in order to cater for older viewers. Young people are out & about enjoying life.

Most workers set off at 7^{AM} & need the previous evening's program to be reasonably early.

With best wishes for the future of the BBC

Yours faithfully

Eric J. Shaw
