

RECEIVED 07 MAR 2006

The James Corporation

Tessa Jowell MP Culture Secretary,
The House of Commons,
Westminster,
London,
SW1.

Tessa Jowell,

Taking into consideration that the vast majority of people, now, do not watch BBC Television programmes, the time has come for you to include the forthwith abolition of the TV Licence Fee and the imposition of advertisements on BBC Television and Radio programmes in the forthcoming White Paper on the future of the BBC.

Yours Sincerely,

Emyr T. James.

Department for Culture, Media and Sport
DATE RECEIVED:	13 MAR 2006
10/04 06	(Tick)
BAD Cibu
38 215	