

Skills Map

The Office for Nuclear Development (OND) has as an objective to build and maintain the UK as the best market in the world for companies to do business in nuclear power. To achieve this objective we will need to be sure that there are sufficient skills to deliver nuclear power in the UK. To facilitate our work on ensuring the skills base can support new nuclear build in the UK, the OND has developed a map to set out all the bodies with an interest in skills for nuclear in the UK and to describe the links, interactions and funding routes between them. Skills is an area where many bodies have a remit; this map provides clarity on the relationships between them, as well as giving information on each one's specific roles and objectives.

There will be accompanying text posted on the website giving a brief written explanation detailing each body involved.