

Planning Courses : Case Studies

Brian Welsh

Station Manager
Merseyside Fire & Rescue Service

"I am a station manager with Merseyside Fire & Rescue Service and have attended a number of courses at the EPC starting with 'Creating Emergency Plans'. As a result of this training, I have been able to develop my skills and knowledge as an emergency planner. The interactions that I have had with colleagues from a diverse range of backgrounds around the country, along with the excellent facilities and support at EPC, have been pivotal in my positive development.

The course objectives are always made clear and the delivery is excellent. The courses 'do what it says on the tin' and are a must for new and established emergency planners."

Leanne Hunt

Emergency Planning Officer
Lincolnshire County Council

"I work as an Emergency Planning Officer for Lincolnshire County Council. My role includes work such as humanitarian assistance, voluntary sector engagement and community resilience.

I had been on several courses at the EPC before attending the Communicating with the Public (Warning and Informing) and Working with the News Media in Emergencies courses in May and July this year. I felt these courses would provide essential knowledge and learning for me and my colleagues when producing our strategies and reviewing our plans for areas such as humanitarian assistance centres.

Both courses were very enjoyable and informative and I have been able to feed back what knowledge I gained into the relevant groups. The courses have also given me more self-confidence in working with the media in future events as I now know what information they would require in an emergency."
