

Tom Watson MP

Minister for Transformational Government

Video transcript

I'm really looking forward to Tower 08 next week, although I'm a little nervous because it's my first speech as a Cabinet Office Minister, but lots of delegates have emailed me with their ideas, and I think one of the problems I'm gonna have is percolating out the priorities in a way that people share with me. There're some great speakers next week, very high profile speakers from around Europe, we're going to do some really inventive workshops, and key for me is that the five hundred people who are going to develop the Transformational Government agenda nationally are all going to be together sharing best practice, giving me their ideas so that I can try and deliver that across government. You know, as a junior minister in the Cabinet Office, I really see my role as delivering for you guys out there so, we've got a big agenda, Transformational Government is exciting but it's only going to be exciting if we can really make a difference to peoples' lives and I want to know who we can practically do that next week. So, hope I don't bore you to death with the speech but I know you'll really enjoy the conference.
