Dear Tessa Jowell, MP

I am writing to you on behalf of myself and my church members in regard to the issue of National Broadcasting Licenses.

I am aware that at this present time, there is a ban on Christian media groups applying for such a license, and that Parliament is considering discussing a Bill concerning this issue.

I wanted to write and express my support for this ban to be lifted as soon as possible. As a Christian, I would greatly value the opportunity to hear Christian based media in the UK. Christian core values are at the moral and ethical centre of our country, and it would seem appropriate to allow the broadcast of such matter.

Despite a considerable decline over the last forty years, there are of course still hundreds of thousands of British people today attending various streams of the Christian church in the UK today. They continue to have a love for the country's Christian Church people are of course immensely valuable to British society and contribute considerably to charitable work, social concern issues, as well as having a strong religious moral voice.

Please accept this letter as a heartfelt encouragement to lift this ban. I know that Christian and indeed people of all faiths, creeds and persuasions will greatly benefit from the passing of such a Bill.

Thank you very much for your attention.

Yours sincerely

Rev. Peter J. Cavanna
