

Video Games Classification Consultation Response – Public

I have not seen compelling evidence that the classification system has failed to inform consumers of content. I have also not yet seen an analysis of what impact a stricter classification system would have on consumer behaviour. In the absence of this evidence it would seem inappropriate to create new statutory offences or enforcement bodies.

There is a risk that a classification system be designed in haste in response to media reports and a perceived problem that may not exist in reality.