

Date: 1 December 2003

REAPPOINTMENT OF MICHAEL STEVENSON TO THE BOARD OF RESOURCE

Michael Stevenson has been reappointed to the board of Resource: the Council for Museums, Archives and Libraries, for a four-year term from 26 June 2003.

Michael Stevenson is Director of Strategy and Communications at the Department for Education and Skills (DfES). Prior to this, he was joint Director of Factual and Learning at the BBC, with responsibility for Education. From 1992 he held a series of top management jobs at the Corporation; Secretary of the BBC (1992-1996); Deputy Director of Nations and Regions (1996-1999); Director of Education (1999-2000); and joint Director of Factual and Learning (April 2000). A BBC graduate trainee, he produced and edited a wide range of radio and television programmes, including On The Record, BBC1's flagship weekly political programme. He holds no other public appointments and has had no significant political activity in the past five years.

Board members do not receive any remuneration.