

There is one real opportunity here - to create a new properly funded research board to cover experimental/translational medicine. This should have equal status and funds to currently constructed mrc boards. Such a development would almost instantly transform innovation in medicine across the whole medical spectrum by leading to a host of innovative approaches to treatment.

d

David J Nutt
Professor of Psychopharmacology
Head of Department of Community Based Medicine
University of Bristol