

Dear Sir,

Re. the proposed copyright extension, I am aware of no valid reason to change from what we have at present, and would ask you to consider very carefully not imposing what will be a significant extra burden to the honest few individuals who re-issue old records on modern formats.

You must be aware of the largely "con amore" nature of the reissue business, and if more revenue is sought, it should-in all fairness-come from the side of the business which can afford it most. Extra revenue sought from those whose "business" is in the reissue of historic material is like begging for food from the starving!!!

Sincerely,

Paul Morris
