Meeting the aspirations of the British People

The Government's objective is to build a strong economy and a fair society, in which there is opportunity and security for all. This leaflet provides a summary of the key announcements in the 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review for the South West, including:

- making inheritance tax allowances transferrable between married couples and civil partners and a £600,000 threshold immediately, rising to £700,000 by 2010-11;
- spending in the NHS will increase by 4 per cent per year in real terms from £90 billion in 2007-08 to £110 billion by 2010-11, building on a 27 per cent real terms increase per head in health financing in the South West since 2001;
- spending in education will increase from £77.7 billion to £99.2 billion;
- further steps to tackle climate change including reforms to and increases in the taxation of air travel to better reflect environmental costs and a £1 billion environmental transformation fund;
- steps to simplify the tax system and business support to enable business to focus on increasing productivity, potentially benefiting 418,000 businesses in the South West;
- reforming capital gains tax by introducing a single rate of 18 per cent from 2008-09, ensuring a more sustainable system that is straightforward for tax payers and internationally competitive; and
- confirming the Government's public service priorities and setting all departments' budgets for the next 3 years with total public spending set to grow at 2.1 per cent per year between 2007-08 and 2010-11.

Government's Comprehensive Spending Review 2007: Where the additional money is going

Regional Policy

The Government's regional policy aims to improve the economic performance of all English regions and reduce the gap in growth rates between the regions. The Government believes that the best way to improve the productivity of the regions is to allow each region and locality the freedom and flexibility to exploit local sources of growth. The Review of sub-national economic development and regeneration (SNR) set out a comprehensive package of reform aimed at enabling more effective and efficient delivery of improved economic performance at the regional, sub-regional and local levels.

The 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review takes forward the conclusions of the SNR, including through a new settlement and sponsorship framework for the Regional Development Agencies (RDAs) aimed at strengthening their strategic focus on economic growth, and proposals to allow local authorities to invest in economic development through levying a local business rate supplement.

Building on its role as the strategic leader of growth in the region, and increasing regional input to national decisions, the South West of England Development Agency has been invited to contribute to the development of Budget 2008 in four areas: building regional intelligence of business priorities; implementing the SNR; responding to the long-term challenge of globalisation; and ensuring that all regions can benefit from the Olympics legacy.

The Government has also published a new Delivery Agreement for its regional economic performance Public Service Agreement (PSA) target, setting out clear actions for progress on improving productivity and employment in every region.

Macroeconomic stability

The British economy has grown for 60 consecutive quarters and inflation remains low. This stability puts Britain in a strong position to respond to global economic challenges and to take advantage of the opportunities of the coming decade. The 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review sets out that:

- the economy is expected to grow by 3 per cent in 2007, and by 2 to 2.5 per cent in 2008;
- inflation is set to remain low and stable at around 2 per cent; and
- the public finances remain sound, with borrowing forecast to be £38 billion in 2007-08 and set to fall in every year for the next 5 years of the projection, and with debt lower than in the US, Japan, and the euro area.

Sustainable growth and prosperity

The pace of change in the global economy is intensifying, with growing movement of people, investment and goods across international borders. The Government is committed to equipping the UK to respond to these changes. Britain's relative economic performance has improved in recent years, with productivity now higher than Germany and moving closer to France. A flexible, enterprising, and high-skilled economy will help deliver faster productivity growth and ensure that all regions of the UK are well-placed to prosper in the global economy. The Government recognises there are significant regional variations in productivity: in 2005, Gross Value Added per head in the South West was 8 per cent below the UK average. The 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review announces new measures to improve productivity in the South West, including

- greater investment in science, by increasing total public investment in science from £5.4 billion in 2007-08 to £6.3 billion by 2010-11, building on a 34 per cent real terms per head increase in the South West since 2001;
- three tax simplification reviews and a package of over 20 tax simplification measures, potentially benefiting 418,000 businesses in the South West;
- increasing total spending on higher education and skills from £14.2 billion in 2007-08 to £16.4 billion by 2010-11, building on a 18 per cent real terms per head increase in the South West since 2001; and
- £15 billion of Government funding in the rail network over five years.

Fairness and opportunity for all

The Government is committed to promoting fairness and opportunity for all to ensure that everyone shares in rising national prosperity. The 2007

Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review sets out the steps the Government is taking to promote employment opportunity for all, tackle child poverty, support families to balance their work and family lives and promote saving and ensuring security for all in old age. These include:

- ensuring that all married couples and civil partners automatically benefit from double the standard inheritance tax allowance - £600,000 immediately, rising to £700,000 by 2010-11;
- raising the child element of the Child Tax Credit by a further £25 in April 2008 and a further £25 in April 2010, benefiting the 276,000 families in the South West who receive the child element of the Child Tax Credit;
- increasing school capital investment from £6.4 billion in 2007-8 to £8 billion in 2010-11, potentially benefiting 2,432 maintained schools in the South West;

- the national roll-out from April 2008 of the In-Work Credit at a rate of £40, retaining a rate of £60 in London, benefiting 35,570 lone parents in the South West;
- investment in education that will deliver a Sure Start centre in every community and extending one-to-one care tuition in English and maths by 2010;
- reforming capital gains tax by introducing a single rate of 18 per cent from 2008-09, ensuring a more sustainable system that is straight-forward to tax-payers and internationally competitive;
- Upgrading the Pension Credit standard minimum guarantee.

Government will deliver the Budget 2007 commitment that the Pension Credit standard minimum guarantee will increase to £124 in 2008/09, benefiting 277,000 households in the South West receiving Pension Credits; and

- reforms to the residence and domicile rules to make the current arrangements operate fairly, while maintaining the UK's competitiveness.

Stronger communities and a better quality of life

In an age of great choice and opportunity, the Government's aim is to deliver a higher quality of life and make Britain a better place to live - in particular meeting people's desire for more responsive public services, access to decent and affordable housing, and strong, cohesive and safe communities. The 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review outlines:

- increasing spending in the NHS's budget from £90 billion in 2007-08 to £110bn by 2010-11, a 4 per cent annual real increase in resources alongside plans for reforming the NHS, building on a 27 per cent real terms per head increase in health funding in the South West since 2001;
- £500 million over three years for a new Housing and Planning Delivery Grant, to help deliver the Government's target of 2 million new homes by 2016;
- investment in the UK's counter-terrorism capacity, with total spending on counter-terrorism, intelligence and resilience going from £2.5 billion in 2007-08 to £3.5 billion in 2010-11 and a new single security budget for counter-terrorism; and
- ensuring a lasting cultural and sporting legacy for the nation by fully funding the construction cost of the Olympics over the next three years.

A more secure, fair and environmentally sustainable world

The Government is committed to delivering strong, environmentally sustainable growth in the UK and leading the international response to the long-term global challenges of climate change, promotion of peace and stability, and eliminating poverty around the world. The 2007 Pre-Budget Report and Comprehensive Spending Review announces:

- an increase in funding for flood and coastal erosion risk management from £600 million in 2007-08 to £800 million in 2010-11;
- an Environmental Transformation Fund of over £1.1 billion to support the deployment of new energy technologies in the UK and abroad;
- reforms to and increasing the taxation of air travel to better reflect environmental costs;
- an increase in overseas aid as a share of national income from 0.37 per cent in 2007-08 to 0.56 per cent in 2010-11, meeting our international commitments; and
- an increase in defence funding, to help secure international peace and stability including funding for two new aircraft carriers and new protected vehicles for the Army and maintenance of the UK's nuclear deterrent.

Where taxpayers' money is spent

Total public spending is expected to be around £589 billion this year, around £9,700 for every man, woman and child in the UK. It is set to rise to £617 billion in 2008-09, £647 billion in 2009-10 and £678 billion in 2010-11, including spending by the Devolved Administrations.
