

dealt with by the police and I think it related to a Protection or Exclusion Order she had in place against her husband. I recall she explained the difficulties that she was facing and she complained about her solicitor. I suggested that she go see Rosemary Nelson. I think I did this on the basis of my perception of Mrs Nelson that had come to me via Mrs [REDACTED]. The complainant was a Unionist/Protestant but that did not matter as I knew Rosemary Nelson represented clients across the whole spectrum of the community. I do not know whether the complainant did in fact speak to Mrs Nelson. I was only involved in trying to get a resolution to her complaint.

12. The only time that I had any dealings with Rosemary Nelson's office was to do with the parades. Sinn Fein was pretty active at this time in relation to parading issues in response to the Drumcree situation in neighbouring Portadown. Rosemary Nelson came into the station on a number of occasions but I never had cause to speak to her. I did call her office by telephone once and was held on the line for ages. Eventually I was asked who was calling and, when I said who it was, the girl on the end of the line simply hung up. I later spoke to a male solicitor at Mrs Nelson's office. I cannot recall his name but he apologised for what had happened. I never ever met Rosemary Nelson. This was not unusual though as I only ever met one solicitor during my time in Lurgan.

Threats against/complaints made by Rosemary Nelson

13. I have been asked whether I have any recollection of complaints being made by Rosemary Nelson's clients. The only recollection that I have is what I have read in the press. I am now aware that she was allegedly threatened by RUC officers via her clients but I was never aware of this at the time.
14. I have been referred to a note dated 29 May 1997 sent from Superintendent Magee to the Sub-Divisional Commander in Lurgan ([REDACTED]). I confirm that I was the Sub-Divisional Commander at that time. I have been referred to the letters enclosed with the note ([REDACTED]). One is a letter from
