The first workforce strategy for the further education sector published in December 2007 identifies four over-arching priorities for actions which are necessary to achieve the vision of the Strategy. This vision will be driven by the workforce response to learner and employer demand, policy direction, technological change and increasingly by domestic and international competition in a global economy. The four over-arching priorities are underpinned by eight themes which were refined through consultation with colleges and learning providers, partners and stakeholders. The aims and anticipated outcomes for each of these themes are set out in the Strategy.

The Implementation Plan can be found on the LLUK website.
