BRINGING FRUIT, VEGETABLE AND PLANT PRODUCTS INTO THE UK

Don't break the law

Check the rules before you travel

There are very strict controls on what fruit, vegetable and plant products you can bring into the European Union (EU). This is because food and plants can carry pests and diseases, which can devastate our environment, and our agricultural and horticultural industries. The Foot and Mouth outbreaks in 2001 and 2007 showed what a damaging effect an animal or plant disease can have on communities, business and the economy.

Within the EU, you can bring in any plant products – as long as they are grown in an EU country, are free from pests and diseases and are for your own consumption.

But if you are travelling from a country outside the EU, many products have weight and quantity restrictions or are banned completely unless you have obtained the relevant official certificate or licence.

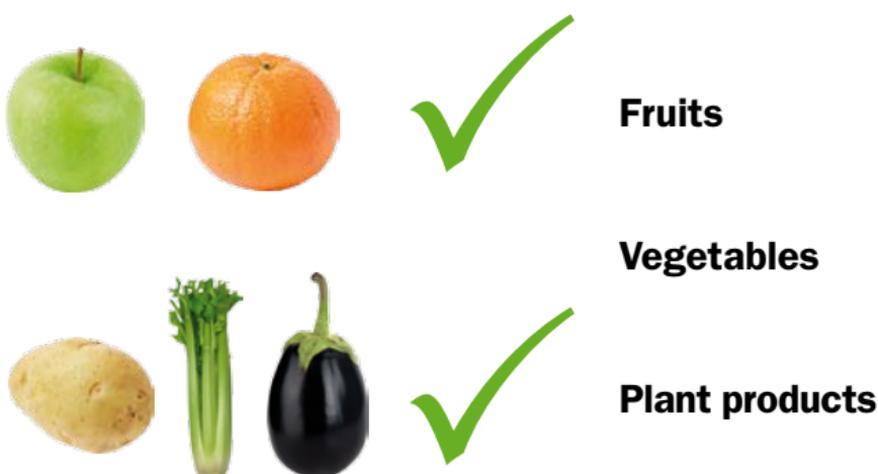

Please note that the restrictions detailed in this leaflet will vary depending on where you are travelling from, and not where the item was grown or purchased.

About this leaflet

This leaflet is not comprehensive and will only give you a summary of the rules. Because pests and diseases can occur very suddenly, these rules can change at any time without notice. For up-to-date information, contact the Food and Environment Research Agency (Fera) – their contact details are on the back of this leaflet.

TRAVELLING FROM A COUNTRY WITHIN THE EUROPEAN UNION (EU)

If you are travelling from a country within the EU (see the list below), you can bring in any fruit, vegetables or plant products – as long as they are grown in any of these countries, are free from pests and diseases and are for your personal consumption.

EU Countries are:

Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus (but only goods from areas effectively controlled by the Government of the Republic of Cyprus), Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland (Republic of), Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, Poland, Portugal (including Madeira and the Azores), Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, the UK (including the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands)

For these purposes, EU countries also include:

Andorra, the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man, San Marino, Switzerland

Please note that for these purposes, Gibraltar and the Canary Islands do not count as being part of the EU.

TRAVELLING FROM OUTSIDE THE EUROPEAN UNION (EU)

If you are travelling from a country outside the EU, many products you may bring in for personal use have weight and quantity restrictions. There are separate rules for commercial imports including Merchandise in Baggage when you will need certain licences to bring them in. For more information, contact Fera – see contact details on the back of this leaflet.

However, certain European and Mediterranean countries (see the list below) have fewer restrictions on some of the products.

DECLARING YOUR ITEMS

It is important that you declare any fruit, vegetable and plant products that you are bringing in from outside the EU.

If you are unsure about any of the products you are bringing in, speak to a UKBA Officer in the red channel or on the red point phone. If you declare any banned or restricted plant products to us, we will take away and destroy them and no further actions will be taken. If you are bringing in more than you are allowed, we will seize the whole amount.

Carrying goods that are banned is illegal, and there are heavy penalties for smuggling. If you fail to declare any items that are not permitted, you could face severe delays, fines or prosecution.

OTHER PROHIBITED AND RESTRICTED ITEMS

Meat, dairy and other animal products

If you are travelling from a country outside the EU, you are not allowed to bring in any meat and dairy products. You may be allowed to bring in a small quantity of other animal products, such as fish, bivalves (such as oysters, clams and mussels), eggs and honey, but this depends on where you are travelling from.

See the leaflet 'Bringing food products into the UK' for an overview of the restrictions. Available to download from www.hmrc.gov.uk

For more information and advice, please contact the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra) on 08459 335 577. Lines are open Monday to Friday, 9am to 5pm.

Endangered animals or plants

Regardless of where you are travelling from, you are not allowed to bring back parts of endangered animal or plants to the UK without the correct permits. This also includes caviar, ivory, skins, hides and shells, and any products made from them.

For more information and advice, contact the Wildlife Licensing and Registration Service at www.ukcites.gov.uk/default.asp or call them on +44 (0)117 372 8749 – lines are open Monday to Friday, 8am to 5pm.

Other items

There are other items, such as alcohol, tobacco, perfume, which are restricted if you are travelling from certain countries, and some items, such as unlicensed drugs and weapons, which are banned completely.

For information about other prohibited and restricted items, see our booklet 'Travelling to the UK'.
