EQual - Ensuring Quality of waste-derived products to achieve resource efficiency

EQual is an innovative demonstration programme, supported by LIFE+ and seven key partner organisations, which will encourage the appropriate use of waste-derived products. It will achieve this by providing tools, techniques and information to improve decision-making, and increase confidence in waste-derived products that meet end of waste status.

The Environment Agency are leading the programme with six partners who are, Rijkswaterstaat - the Netherlands’ Ministry of Infrastructure and the Environment, The Chartered Institution of Wastes Management, Organics Recycling Group, Environmental Services Association, Northern Ireland Environment Agency and Energy UK.

Developing a Quality Protocol checker web tool

What it will do
The web tool is being designed for businesses needing to assess whether they comply with the end of waste requirements set out in the Quality Protocols and European end of waste regulations, (Quality Protocol information can be found at http://www.environment-agency.gov.uk/wasteprotocols). It is initially being designed around the Aggregates and the Compost Quality Protocol guidance documents, but is ultimately intended for compliance assessment for other waste derived materials.

Through the web tool the aim is to:
- Present users with a step-by-step guide on how to comply with Quality Protocols
- Improve current practice and consistency
- Provide efficiencies to both businesses and regulators by providing clarity around Quality Protocol compliance
- Provide a faster assessment and greater user confidence

How to get involved
A prototype of the QP checker web tool will be developed during 2012, and more detailed trials and evaluation of the tool will be conducted during 2013 - 2014. We are working with a wide range of organisations, including industry and business, consultants, regulators and environmental groups during this time.
