Welcome to this short survey Ipsos MORI is conducting on behalf of the Office of Fair Trading. It will take up to 15 minutes to complete. The survey is about how people go about buying goods and services and price comparison sites. All your details and answers will be anonymous and confidential.

When responding to these questions please bear in mind the various types of purchases you have made or thought about making, including those you make regularly and those that are occasional or special purchases. Please think about low value items as well as high - and about purchasing services as well as actual goods.

Please click on the 'start' icon to continue. Please click on the appropriate box, or boxes, or give numerical scores, as applicable and use the icons at the bottom of each screen while completing the survey.

QA. ASK ALL
Firstly a general question; have you experienced a price offer which increased as you went through the purchasing process as more options and costs were added on to the initial advertised price?

PLEASE TICK ONE BOX

Yes

ASK ALL WHO SAY YES AT QA

QB. There are the three different methods frequently used by suppliers for additional options and costs:

A: Opt-in boxes - where you tick the boxes to choose which ones you want

B: Opt-out boxes - which are already ticked and included automatically - you have to ‘untick’ the box if you do not want them

C: Both option boxes – you must tick one to buy or tick the other box not to buy. Neither has been automatically ticked and you can choose which one to tick to progress to the next stage.

Which one of these do you prefer for…

Q16B. You say Price Comparison sites are poor for some products or services what is it about the Price Comparison sites for these products that make them poor?

PLEASE TICK ALL THAT APPLY

a) One or more major supplier is missing.

b) Some suppliers listed are unknown or not recognised as trusted names.

c) The deals compared are not like-for-like so the lowest price may not be the best deal.

d) You cannot be sure the offer on the Price Comparison sites will actually still be in stock or available from the supplier

e) With complicated packages / deals the Price Comparison sites does not help identify the best value for money for your particular needs.

f) Price Comparison sites don’t allow you to 'click through’ and conclude the purchase there and then

g) It isn’t easy to "window shop" or explore alternatives

h) Using Price Comparison sites can be a slow and very time consuming process; too much data to input or options to compare

i) The Price Comparison sites may give you a basic price but there can be added extras when you go to the actual supplier

j) The price quoted by the supplier can be different from that on the Price Comparison sites – for exactly the same product and extras

k) Some supplier’s products only provide the bare essentials to make the price look cheap and appear near the top of the Results page
l) Price Comparison sites sometimes pass on your details which can result in your receiving unwanted emails or unsolicited phone calls

m) Commercial considerations means Price Comparison sites can be biased
